The Master Plan

- Tells a story about how a community became what it is today, and lays out a vision for what it would like to be in the future.
- Guide for the overall character, physical form, growth, and development of a community.
- Describes how, why, when and where the community should build, rebuild and preserve.

- Gives legitimacy to projects and regulations that implement the Master Plan's vision.
 - E.g. regulations that support the type of development the Town has prioritized, or that protect features the Town values.
 - Does NOT alter the normal process for approving capital projects or regulation.

The Master Plan and Regulations

Adoption of a Master Plan is a prerequisite to almost all subsequent regulations.

- Zoning ordinance, Site Plan Regulations, Subdivision Regulations.
- Master Plan is not applied directly to individual projects.
- Instead, the Planning Board is tasked with developing a set of regulations that reflects the values laid out in the Master Plan.

Do think of the Plan as:

- The Town's vision.
- A living dynamic document.
- A guide for community growth.
- A guide for capital investment.

Don't Think of the Plan As:

- Regulations.
- A static document.
- Funding.
- A burden.

- Implementation.
- Monitoring.

During the presentation, Charlie pointed out that a few people had reached out to him and expressed interest in being involved with the Master Plan preparation process. Charlie said that he forwarded the emails to James and asked if they were informed about this presentation. James indicated that they were not contacted. Charlie indicated that he would reach back out to them and would like to include some or all of the slides from the presentation with the email. James said that he would send the presentation to Charlie.

Following the presentation, the Board brainstormed ways to get the public involved in the master planning process. Terry suggested posting something on Facebook. Lynn indicated that it could be done by Terri Marsh in a way that doesn't allow comments. One method discussed included the members of the Board reaching out to people they know and asking them to pass the word on to their friends.

There was discussion about posting information regarding the Master Plan on the Town's website. Lynn indicated that she would talk with Terri Marsh about creating a landing on the website that users could be directed to. Charlie suggested putting the presentaton up there.

According to the master planning schedule, there are meetings planned for July and August. The dates and times for those meetings were scheduled to be held at the Town Hall.

- July 13, 2022 – Review items 13 (Report of implementation progress) and 14 (Outline new master plan with content to be retained).
- August 16, 2022 – Review draft survey.

There was discussion about mentioning the master planning process in the Community Calenar. Don Coker indicated that he would mention the upcoming dates in the next article.

There being no further discussion, the Board closed the Work Session in preparation for the 7:00PM regular meeting.
